

Report on Book Club for North Tamerton Parish AGM

The Book Club meets on the first Wednesday of every month and everyone takes turn to host. We currently have 12 members with the average turnout between 6 and 8 - enough for a good discussion, but not enough to challenge seating provision. Devon Libraries have an extensive catalogue of titles available in sets of at least 10 copies and each year we select a pool of 24-36 titles from which each month's book is provided.

Books read this year have included classics such as Middlemarch and Don't Look Now by Eliot and DuMaurier respectively to LeCarre's The Night Manager and Big Little Lies by Liane Moriarty which have been adapted into successful TV series.

There is always a lively discussion, not always about the book, and a chance to get together and chat over tea and biscuits, or more usually, cheese and biscuits, cake, wine.....

New members are always welcome - we don't take ourselves too seriously, or even manage to read the book every month!
